Annually, approximately 60,000 dogs (mostly of the Spanish type) are found in the communities of Castile and León, Extremadura and Andalusia. Dogs are used primarily by hunters (hunters) for hunting rabbits.

But

what is a dog? The dogs are a breed of dog of the Spanish type, of medium size, with a short, smooth coat and a long, slender body. They resemble the English pointer, which suggests a relationship between the two breeds.

Why are these dogs treated in this way? Although the reasons are complex and multifactorial, including economic and social factors, the brutality against dogs remains unjustified.

The Dogs: Characteristics and Care

The dogs are animals that are intelligent and fast and have excellent resistance.

The trainers of our team usually say: "A dog is never just a dog, but a partner for life." These dogs are affectionate, obedient and adaptable, making them ideal companions.

The Illegal Trade of Dogs in Spain

Along with the problem of cruelty, there is also a problem of the illegal trade of these dogs everywhere in the world. This causes suffering not only to the dogs, but also to the breed and the environment.

A Position of Brazil and Here for the Front

The Brazilian dog is a strange situation; many defenders of the rights of Brazilian animals are concerned with the well-being of
