One basic strategy is for a contestant to act so as to maximize the expected value of his prize.

At each point in the game where the banker makes an offer, the contestant can maximize his expected value by choosing the offer if it is greater than the average value of the unopened cases and declining it when it is less.

Throughout the game, the player is offered an offer to open a case. If the offer is greater than the average value of the unopened cases, the player should accept the offer.

If the offer is less than the average value, the player should decline the offer.
